EXHIBITORS

American Cancer Society

The American Cancer Society is the nationwide, community-based, voluntary health organization dedicated to eliminating cancer as a major health problem by preventing cancer, saving lives, and diminishing suffering from cancer, through research, education, advocacy, and service. The American Cancer Society offers programs and services to help the more than 1.4 million cancer patients diagnosed each year in this country, and the 11 million cancer survivors – as well as their family and friends. We provide information, day-to-day help, and emotional support. And best of all, our help is free. Whether it is providing information to help make decisions or free services like transportation to and from cancer treatment or a free place to stay while receiving treatment far from home, the American Cancer Society is available around the clock to help people focus on getting well. Please visit www.cancer.org or call 1.800.227.2345 for more information.

DHMH Office of Oral Health

The Office of Oral Health (OOH) was established in 1996 to address a myriad of dental or oral diseases affecting the State's neediest children and adults. The mission of OOH is to improve the oral health of Maryland residents through a variety of public oral health initiatives and interventions. The Office of Oral Health (OOH) has built awareness in our community and has made oral health a critical part in the daily lives of the citizens of Maryland. OOH is a leading public health division that is recognized as a best practice oral health program. Guided by data, we use evidence-based information to serve as an exemplary oral health resource to our stakeholders. Through our activities, initiatives and strong partnerships, all residents regardless of socio-economic status will be freed from tooth decay, and will have timely access to preventive dental services in the state of Maryland.

HopeWell Cancer Support

For 18 years, our work at HopeWell Cancer Support has been based on the premise that people affected by cancer need more than just medical care. HopeWell's programs are specifically designed to complement the medical system by helping people with cancer, and their loved ones, cope with the life-changing impact of a cancer diagnosis. At HopeWell, we recognize that an emotional response to cancer is normal and that being surrounded by people who understand is part of the healing process. HopeWell offers a broad range of programs and activities, including support groups, educational presentations, and mind, body, spirit programs, that allow people to access a community of support that is unmatched in the Baltimore metropolitan area. All of HopeWell's programs are offered at no charge and are open to people at any stage of their journey through cancer. Welcome Orientation Meetings are held every Tuesday at 7:00 pm and every Thursday at 12:00 pm. An orientation session for Professionals is held on the third Friday of each month at 9:00 am.

National Coalition for Cancer Survivorship

NCCS advocates for quality cancer care for all people touched by cancer and provides tools that empower people to advocate for themselves. Founded by and for cancer survivors, NCCS created the widely accepted definition of survivorship and defines someone as a cancer survivor from the time of diagnosis and for the balance of life. NCCS strongly believes in evidence-based advocacy that reflects the needs of all cancer survivors to effect policy change at the national level. By advocating for patient-centered, coordinated care through treatment planning and care planning, NCCS is ensuring cancer survivorship remains at the center of healthcare policy. Believing that access to credible and accurate patient information is fundamental to understanding and receiving quality cancer care, NCCS offers free publications and resources that empower individuals to become strong advocates for their own care or the care of others. Patients empowered with information and tools can receive optimal care by making their needs known to their doctors, care teams, health plans and elected officials. NCCS's flagship program is the award-winning Cancer Survival Toolbox®, a self-learning audio series developed by leading cancer organizations to help people develop crucial skills to understand and meet the challenges of their illness.

Pro Bono Counseling Project

The Pro Bono Counseling Project was created by the licensed mental health professional associations in Maryland to support the efforts of their clinicians who want to assist those who are unable to access mental health care; to equitably distribute these cases within the professional community; and to discreetly record and report data. Simply, our non-profit was created to provide a link between those who need and want mental health care and who are unable to afford it and those who want to provide it on a volunteer basis. The Pro Bono Counseling Project seeks to assist individuals and families that are low income, underinsured, and/or uninsured. The Pro Bono Counseling Project has a variety of different programs that were created to meet the needs of specific populations. They include but are not limited to the Jean Steirn Cancer Program to assist Cancer patients and their love ones, Caring for the Caregivers, Private Counseling for Public Service (a Military Program for Service men and women and their love ones), Parenting Alone: Helping to Build Healthy Families, Transition and Depression: Elderly and Underserved, and Victims of Violence.

Sidney Kimmel Comprehensive Cancer Center at Johns Hopkins

Since its opening in 1973, our Cancer Center has led the world in deciphering the mechanisms of cancer and new ways to treat it. The strength of our research and treatment programs was recognized early on by the National Cancer Institute, becoming one of the first to earn comprehensive cancer center status and recognition as a "Center of Excellence." The pioneering research that defined cancer as a genetic disease was done at our center. These discoveries led to the first genetic tests for a hereditary cancer and a screening stool test for colon cancer. Our investigators were the first to map a cancer genome, deciphering the genetic blueprints for colon, breast, pancreatic, and brain cancers. The Kimmel Cancer Center encompasses a wide spectrum of specialty programs for both adults and children coping with cancer, including bone marrow transplantation and new drug development. Additionally, those at high risk for breast, ovarian, colon and other cancers may seek information about early detection, prevention, and genetic counseling through a comprehensive genetics service.

The Kimmel Cancer Center also offers complete family and patient services that include a Cancer Counseling Center, survivors and palliative care programs, and the 39 suite, Hackerman-Patz Patient and Family Pavilion for patients and their families traveling from out-of-town.
